Bill for Water Pollution Work Vetoed by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower vetoed a 900 million dollar water pollution control bill today on the ground that state and local governments rather than the federal government should foot most of the bill.

"Because water pollution is a uniquely local blight," Eisenhower said in a message to the House, "primary responsibility for solving the problem lies not with the federal government but rather must be assumed and exercised as it has been by state and local governments. This being so, the defects of H.R. 3610 (the veto bill) are apparent."

"By holding forth the promise of a large scale program of long-term federal support, it would tempt municipalities to delay essential water pollution abatement efforts while they waited for federal funds."

House leaders, sure the veto would come, already have laid plans to attempt to override it, perhaps Thursday. They aren't optimistic about the prospects, however.

But they do figure some Republicans may be hurt in the November election if they vote to support a veto of a bill that would offer financial help to cities over the country for building sewage disposal plants.

Today's veto was the first of the new session of Congress.

The bill would continue a water pollution act of 1956 and raise the total of federal funds that could be spent from 500 to 900 million dollars over a 10-year period.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today unanimously struck down fines imposed by Little Rock and North Little Rock, Ark., on leaders of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored people who refused to identify local members.

Justice Stewart delivered the court's opinion. Justices Black and Douglas wrote a concurring opinion.

Stewart said that on the record "it sufficiently appears that compulsory disclosures of the membership lists of local branches" of NAACP, "would work a significant interference with the freedom of association of their members."

Stewart added, "There was substantial uncontroverted evidence that public identification of persons in the community as members of the organizations had been followed by harassment and threats of bodily harm."

"There was also evidence that fear of community hostility and economic reprisals that would follow public disclosure of the membership lists had discouraged new members from joining the organizations and induced former members to withdraw."

The justice went on: "This repressive effect, while in part the result of private attitudes and pressures, was brought to bear only after the exercise of governmental power had threatened to force disclosure of the members' names."

Stewart said that two Arkansas municipalities had failed "to demonstrate a controlling justification for the deterrence of free association" and hence officials of NAACP "cannot be punished for refusing to produce information."

Black said in his concurring opinion in which Douglas joined that they felt the facts showed the ordinance involved as applied in the case of the two NAACP officials violate freedom of speech and assembly guaranteed by the first amendment to the constitution.

Black wrote that First Amendment rights are beyond abridgment either by legislation that directly restrains their exercise or by suppression or impairment through harassment, humiliation or exposure by government.

Black said these principles are Continued on Page Two

'Island in Sun' Banned in Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP)—The Memphis censor board has banned as obscene the movie, "Island in the Sun," which stars Negro actor Harry Belafonte and Joan Fontaine in a story of interracial love.

It was the second time the film has been banned here. In 1957, a previous board called it:

"Inflammatory, too frank a depiction of miscegenation, offensive to moral standards and no good for either white or Negro." Miscegenation refers to race mixing.

Board members said last night they were willing to back up the ban in court.

They also indicated another movie, "Rebel Without a Cause," may be banned. Mrs. Judson McKellar, board chairman, called it was a "perfectly dreadful and frightful" film. Another member said he objected to the way it portrayed the young white and Negro gangs.

Mrs. McKellar said the board used the word "obscene" on advice of City Attorney Frank B. Gianotti. They quoted him as saying the city ordinance phrase, "inimical to the public safety, health, morals and welfare," no longer could be defended in court.

State Needs to Aid Young Folks

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas needs a shot in the arm from young people in business and industry, a University of Arkansas industrial education professor told the 14th annual convention of the Future Tradesmen of Arkansas yesterday.

Dr. Marion E. Maddox said such a movement would help balance the state's economy. But he added that to keep young people in needed fields in the state, it is necessary to offer them the right kind of jobs. Some 300 high school students attended the opening session of the three-day convention.

Khrushchev was expected to urge once more that the Communist bloc is Indonesia's best friend abroad and the Western Allies its worst enemy, and that Sukarno's government should have a warmer attitude toward the Indonesian Communist party.

Sukarno is expected to repeat his suggestion for Asian and African representation at the Geneva summit talks and Indonesia's hopes for a new and heavy dose of Soviet aid.

Dog Manual Proves to Be Costly

WASHINGTON (AP)—That Air Force manual which told how to wash an officer's dog cost $5,572.71 to produce.

The Air Force also said a master sergeant writer and three civilians had worked on it—the sergeant for 180 days, a typist 30 days, and an illustrator and editor 10 days each.

The manual, among other information for officers' aides, had rules for mixing drinks, shining shoes, and making beds. It has been withdrawn. Nevertheless the Air Force defended it in the report it submitted today to a House Appropriations subcommittee.

It said information from the manual had been "taken out of context" and "misconstrued."

"The fact that certain tasks or procedures were included in the manual does not indicate that such duties were to be performed regularly by the airman aide as a routine part of his duty," it added. "However, such tasks might justifiably be required of the aide upon occasion."

"And, further, such information would be useful to those airman aides who had responsibility for supervising domestic help frequently indigenous in overseas areas in the officers' household."

Cuba Ready to Talk With U. S. on Differences

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government says it is ready to negotiate its differences with the United States but warns against any Washington action harmful to the Cuban economy.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa handed a note to U.S. Charge d'Affaires Daniel Braddock Monday announcing that Cuba would appoint a commission to open talks in Washington at a date convenient to both countries.

The note expressed "confidence" this decision will be justly appreciated by the North American government inasmuch as it is directed to the examination of questions that have lately affected traditional relations between Cuba and the United States."

But the note indicated that negotiations would fall through if the U.S. government or Congress took steps Cuba might consider harmful to its economy. This was an obvious warning against any tampering with the sugar quota system under which the United States purchases half of Cuba's sugarcane crop at premium prices.

Braddock declined to comment on the contents of the note, which he relayed to Washington. A state department spokesman in Washington said there would be no comment until the proposed has been studied.

Matters at issue between the U.S. and Cuban governments include: U.S. demands for prompt and adequate payment for American property seized under Castro's agrarian reform program.

Cuban complaints that the United States is harboring "war criminals" members of dictator Fulgencio Batista's regime.

Cuban charges that U.S.-based planes are making bombing attacks on Cuba.

Severe restrictions on imports from the United States to Cuba also has been pressing for a new commercial agreement with the United States embracing the sugar quota system. Castro has complained frequently that having the quota subject to U.S. congressional action makes it "an instrument of political pressure" against Cuba.

Bill Designed to Up Interest Yield

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee today approved a compromise bill designed to increase the interest yield on long-term government bonds.

The committee vote was 18-6, with Democrats opposed to any increase in rates voting against the measure.

The compromise, worked out in cooperation with Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, did not go as far as the Eisenhower administration had requested—an outright repeal of the present 4 1/2 per cent rate ceiling.

But it would give the Treasury wide latitude in managing the record-sized national debt while keeping the over-all interest limitation of 4 1/2 per cent.

Negro Plea Innocent to Bombing

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two Negroes accused of dynamiting the home of a Negro student who attends integrated Central High School pleaded innocent at their arraignment today.

Circuit Judge William J. Kirby reduced bond for the defendants, Maceo Antonio Binns, 31, and Herbert Odell Monks Jr., 17, from $50,000 to $15,000 each.

Neither was able to furnish bond immediately, and they were returned to jail.

Prosecutor Frank Holt has not revealed the basis of charges against the pair, and it was not brought out at the brief hearing.

Binns, a chauffeur and handyman, and Monks, a junior at all-Negro Horace Mann High School are accused of bombing the house of Carlotta walls, 16-year-old Central High student, the night of Feb. 9.

No one was injured, and damage was slight.

The formal charge against each is damaging property with an explosive.

There were 35 persons in the building including the landlady Clara M. Gillen, 63. Her son, James, said three-quarters of the residents were pensioners.

Gillen identified the dead as Robert Wainford, Dick Scheele, Jack Brashear, Claus Petersen, Ernest Schmidt, Lloyd Canfield, and Andy Vopat.

Proclamation

The Future Farmers of America is a national organization of, by and for farm boys who are studying vocational agriculture in the public high schools of the nation. A local chapter of this fine organization is active in the Hope High School.

As America's future farmers, these young men hold in their minds and hands the progress that this community and this nation may make in the years to come, because a prosperous and productive agriculture is the very foundation of our American standard of living. We will need good farmers in our future.

I, therefore, join with others throughout the nation in proclaiming Feb. 20-27, 1960, to be Future Farmers of America Week. I urge all people of this community to become acquainted with and give full support to the program of vocational education in agriculture, and to its students, the Future Farmers of America. As the basic agricultural producers, they are our first line of defense against hunger and privation that we know is prevalent over much of the world today.

applicable to all people under the constitution irrespective of their race, color, politics or religion. "That is, for us, the essence of the present opinion of the court," Black wrote.

The court ruled on a joint appeal by Mrs. Daisy Bates of Little Rock, state president of the NAACP, and Mrs. Birdie Williams, president of the North Little Rock branch of NAACP. They were fined $25 each for refusing to disclose names of members and contributors to NAACP.

The fines were under identical ordinances adopted by the two cities in 1957.

Known as occupational privilege tax ordinances, they require benevolent and non-profit organizations seeking tax exemptions to file with clerks of the cities financial statements and other information.

Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Williams in refusing to reveal names of NAACP members and contributors said they feared reprisals, harassment and bodily harm to NAACP members.

Robert L. Carter, of New York City, general counsel for NAACP, argued before the Supreme Court that the ordinances violated the guarantee of freedom of association and of privacy secured against state encroachment by the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Joseph C. Kemp, Little Rock City Attorney, defended his city's ordinance as a valid tax measure. No attorney appeared before the high court to argue on behalf of North Little Rock.

In their joint appeal the women cited a U. S. Supreme Court decision of June 30, 1958. The court then said Alabama could not compel disclosure of NAACP membership records, unless the state could show a "controlling justification."

The Arkansas Supreme Court in upholding the $25 fines imposed on Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Williams stated the purpose of the Alabama procedure was to force NAACP out of Alabama. The Ark. Supreme Court said that in the cases of Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Williams the purpose was to determine the tax status of groups seeking immunity from levies of the cities.

Coors' Wife Willing to Pay Reward

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—The wife of missing millionaire Adolph Coors III broke a week of silence about his disappearance Monday night.

"We are ready to pay for my husband's safe return," she said in a statement.

Coors, missing for two weeks today when his station wagon was found on a dirt road he had taken from home to his office, was kidnapped in the opinion of his father and Sheriff Arthur Wernuth.

For the past week there was no comment from the family or law enforcement officers. But Mrs. Coors' statement was issued through the Coors' Brewery public relations counsel.

"My family and I are anxiously awaiting word from my husband," it said. "I have asked all law enforcement authorities to withdraw from active participation in this case, which they have done. By this action we are giving assurance that no effort will be made to interfere with attempts to communicate with us. We are ready to pay for my husband's safe return."

Coors, 44, a shy, hard working man heading the big Coors complex here, left for work Feb. 9 about 8 a. m. Three hours later his car was found, engine running, near a small wooden bridge smidged with human blood stains. His glasses and sports cap were found nearby.

The missing man has two younger brothers active in the management of the Coors Brewery and the Coors ceramics plant.

Profiteering on Sick Denied by Drug Makers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized drug manufacturers denied vigorously today their industry is profiteering against the sick, or dealing in monopolistic practices. Dr. Austin Smith of Washington, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Assn., contended instead that drugs and medicines are "the real bargain" for the buying public today. His testimony was prepared for renewed hearings by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

At earlier hearings, the subcommittee has heard testimony that some big manufacturers have received markups as big as several thousand per cent on medicines sold to patients for up to 50 cents a dose.

Smith contended that singling out the price of one out of many products of a firm could mislead the public.

Vigorously defending medicine prices as reasonable, he said: "Americans would be paying a billion dollars a year more for drugs if the price of medicine in the past few years had gone up routine business for an answer to only as much as the total cost of charges made last Friday by Sen.

Smackover to Vote on Sewage Plant

SMACKOVER, Ark. (AP)—Voters decide today on a $150,000 bond issue to build a sewage treatment plant here.

Smackover was one of three southwest Arkansas cities ordered by the state Water Pollution Control Commission to stop polluting the Ouachita River with sewage.

A plant would cost $217,000. The federal government would pay the remainder.

The other cities mentioned in the commission order were Camden and Stephens. Camden voters turned down a $1,200,000 bond issue but new city manager government is optimistic about getting a bond issue passed. Stephens has asked for more time to find a site for a proposed plant.

Stuart Symington (D-Mo)

Symington, a likely but unannounced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, charged that the Eisenhower administration is misleading the American people on facts about Soviet missiles and military strength.

Although Republicans fought back at the time, Dirksen's reply seemed likely to put something of an official GOP stamp on the contention that Democrats are seeking political advantage in the argument over what they call the missile gap.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) took this line in accusing the opposition of misleading the people by playing what he called a numbers game.

Saltonstall, top Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, told the Sons of the American Revolution here Monday night that the only true appraisal of U. S. military strength rests on a qualitative, rather than a numerical, basis.

Rep. Willis E. Miller (R-NV), chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, took a similar rap at the Democrats.

"I'm getting a little sick," he said, "of the perennial political pessimists who are willing to sell America short to further their own political careers."

"The record shows," he added in a statement, "that the Symingtons, the Humphreys, the Johnys, sons and other Democrats—some already eyeing the White House two years ago—were the loudest forecasters of economic doom and the noisiest clamorers for vast federal spending programs and make-work projects. . . . They were wrong about the depression, and they're wrong about our military might."

With Democrats preparing to answer Dirksen, the Senate seemed in for another day with little mention of the civil rights proposal before it. In a 6½ hour session Monday, which included the reading of Washington's Farewell Address, there was no mention of the subject.

Defense Fuss May Delay Rights Issue

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fresh battle over the state of the nation's defenses seemed likely today to delay the Senate's languishing debate over civil rights legislation.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois had drugs if the price of medicine in the past few years had gone up routine business for an answer to only as much as the total cost of charges made last Friday by Sen.

What Is the Objective of Negro Students in Seeking Service in Southern Cafes?

Editor's Note—What is the objective of Negro students, who have been seeking service at lunch counters in some Southern states? Ralph Morin of The Associated Press made a survey in the area. Here is his report.

By RALPH MORIN
CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Three weeks ago, a group of Negro college students entered a variety chain store in Greensboro, N.C., and sat down at the lunch counter.

They were not served. There was no disturbance.

Four days later, that store and another in a different chain temporarily closed their doors.

In the next week, this incident was re-enacted in a half-dozen other cities in North Carolina. Similar demonstrations were held in South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee and Florida.

All followed much the same pattern.

Most of the demonstrators were Negro college students. In some instances, white students joined them. All were well dressed. They were quiet. While awaiting service at the lunch counters, they read college text books. Some read the Bible.

What's it all about? Is it an organized movement? What is the overall objective?

"It's a manifestation of the unrest among this generation of students," says Joseph Charles Jones, Negro divinity student in Charlotte. "It comes from their desire to eliminate the injustice of the Negro's position."

"It is part of their feeling at all the schools the vote—civil rights in general."

Jones organized the movement in Charlotte. He prefers to be called its spokesman, not its leader.

He is 22, slim, neatly dressed,

Greensboro incident when he was motoring to Charlotte from Washington.

"I discovered that many of the students here were anxious to go downtown to the stores," he said. "But there was no leadership or defined purpose. I felt that someone had to give it direction, to make the Charlotte movement meaningful and purposeful."

"On Tuesday, Feb. 9, after the word spread, about 150 students assembled outside the administration building. I talked to them about the importance of passive resistance."

The group went downtown in automobiles and busses. Some walked, Jones said.

"We filled all the 75 seats at the lunch counter in Woolworth's. We said nothing. The manager did not appear. The waitresses simply stood there. The police came in. They didn't speak to any one. They just looked."

Other members of the group went to another store (Kress). Later, they entered a number of other stores all within a radius of four square blocks in Charlotte.

Jones said the movement is not correlated among Negro students in different cities.

Officials of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) said they had no prior knowledge of the movement.

North Carolina Atty. Gen. Malcolm Seawell said, however, "I know of one instance where it was planned four months ago." He gave no details.

Gordon Carey, representative of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE) was in Norfolk, Va., last Friday night. He said he had been discussing the question of serving Negroes at the lunch counters with executives of Woolworth's and Kress stores in New York City. He said students at Durham, N.C., had requested his advice.

Carey said he did not know whether there will be demonstrations elsewhere in the South.

"I'll just say I hope there will be," he said.

On Saturday, Negro students entered stores in Richmond, Va., and Nashville, Tenn.

Meanwhile, what Jones calls a "cooling off period" appears to have begun.

In Charlotte, Mayor James S. Smith told this reporter: "Communication between Negroes and while is not open at present. I have tried to leave the doors open to both sides. I'm not acting as the arbiter. I've offered to furnish facilities where they could meet."

"I am working on an idea."

Earlier, the mayor wrote the students a letter, which said in part: "I would implore you and your group to take into consideration the fact that no further good can be accomplished by the continuation of the present demonstration. On behalf of all the people of our city, I appeal to your strong sense of patriotism and citizenship to discontinue this demonstration in order to return to normalcy."

The students complied but said, "Our decision to postpone the demonstrations temporarily does not represent any abandonment of our goals."

Jones also issued a statement which said:

"I think we have made our point for the present. We leave the matter to the merchants and managers of the stores involved and to their sense of fair play."

They are Angelo Koloctovis, 51, owner of the building, and Edward Abschal, 44, operator of a salvage business who used the two upper floors.

Detective Cpl. William Baker of the arson squad, one of the arresting officers, said later both men had denied setting the blaze.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The interior of a burning three-story brick building in downtown St. Louis collapsed with a roar Monday night, killing three firemen. Ten other firemen were injured in the blaze, one seriously.

Two of the victims, trapped under debris, lived for some time after the upper floors had fallen in. Some 25 other firemen worked desperately to rescue them. But both were dead when extricated the last one six hours after they had been trapped.

During the futile rescue operation, a Roman Catholic priest, inched his way through the smoldering wreckage to administer last rites.

A city hospital physician crawled through the debris to give medication to ease their pain.

Dead were fire Capt. Arthur Fette, 62, and Clinton Lorbert, 36, and Pvt. William Grieser, 36.

Fette's body was recovered soon after he was killed. Lorbert and Grieser's remains would be heard as firemen worked to reach them. Lorbert's body was the last to be recovered.

Porks Slam Rice to Take Over 4th Place

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Pat Foster scored 24 points and Clyde Rhoden hit 22 last night as Arkansas Razorbacks trampled the Rice Owls 94-74 in a Southwest Conference basketball game.

The victory gave the Porks a hold on fourth place in the SWC standings with a 6-5 record. Baylor is fifth with a 5-5 chart.

Southern Methodist and Texas A&M, two of the three teams tied for the league lead, meet tonight in Dallas in a game that will shove one of them into second place. Texas, the third leader, faces Baylor at Austin. And TCU meets Texas Tech at Fort Worth.

Arkansas doesn't play again until Friday night when it hosts Texas at Fayetteville.

Last night's triumph saw the Hogs run up their highest score in history on the Houston team. The Razorbacks hit 50.7 per cent of their field goal attempts, and Rice wasn't in the game after the first few minutes.

Arkansas led 47-33 at halftime. Roland Burris, David Craig and Steve Smith each scored 16 points for Rice. The Owls hit only 33.9 per cent of their floor shots.

Rice stands in the conference cellar with a 1-10 record.

Heavyweight Champ Back for U. S. Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson is back for another whirlwind stop in the U. S., optimistic for a change concerning his proposed June 22 rematch with Floyd Patterson at the Polo Grounds.

"All major obstacles to a return bout with Patterson have been settled," Ingo said Sunday night after arriving by plane.

Lopez Thinks Siebern Bad Yank Trade

Associated Press Sports Writer TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Chicago White Sox Manager Al Lopez, who seldom involves himself in the affairs of the teams, thinks the New York Yankees may rue the day they traded Norm Siebern to Kansas City.

So positive is the Spanish gentleman that the Yankees made a mistake in including the left-handed hitting outfielder in the 4-for-3 deal with the Athletics last December that he is willing to wager a few pesos that Siebern out-hits the key man the Yankees were after, Roger Maris.

"I'll go even further," said the usually conservative Lopez. "Not only will Siebern out-hit Maris but he will hit more home runs in Kansas City than Roger will in New York. I'm not betting Maris but I've always liked Siebern as a hitter and that Kansas City park is ideally suited to his style of hitting."

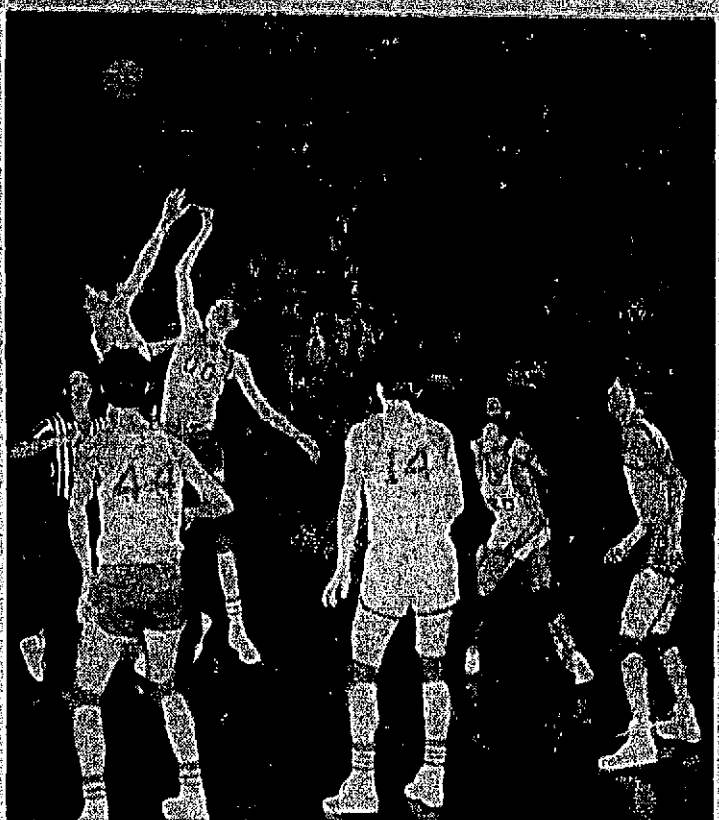

The 26-year-old Siebern, one year older than Maris, hit 11 home runs to Roger's 16 last year. Maris' .273 batting average was only two points higher than that of Siebern in virtually the same number of games. In 1958, however, Maris socked 28 home runs with Cleveland and Kansas City while Siebern had 14 for the Yankees.

Lopez shrugged off recent Las Vegas odds which established the Yankees as 4-5 favorites to win the American League pennant, while making the White Sox no better than 2 to 1 and the Indians 3-1.

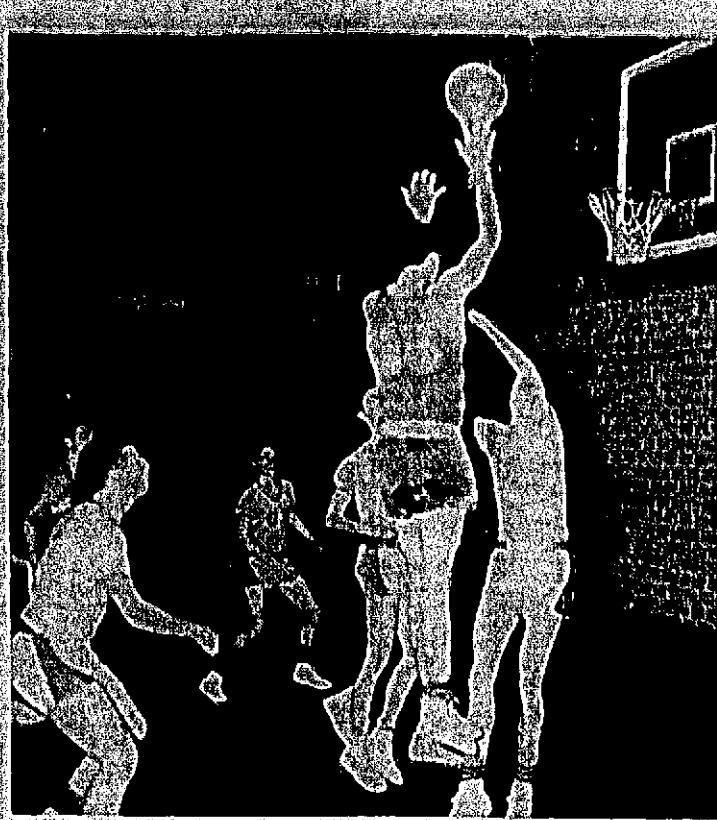

"I don't particularly care either way," he said, "but I don't see how they could make any club a favorite over ours. We won the pennant last year and we have improved ourselves with more punch and in left-handed pitching."

Lopez rates Cleveland the team to beat although he readily conceded the Yankees have a lot of material and should command a great deal of respect.

Hope, Ashdown Play on Local Cage Court at 7

By TEDDY JONES JR.

All even with a victory each the Hope High Bobcats and the Ashdown Panthers square off in the deciding match of their seasons series tonight at the Jone Field House.

A preliminary game starting at 7 p.m. finds the Hope B teamers going against the Ashdown B team.

The Bobcats and Panthers met for the first time this season in the Hope Holiday tournament and the Panthers ruined things for the host team by dropping them 49-47 in a thrilling contest. But, Hope was out of their own tournament.

The Cats evened things up when they met Ashdown on the Panthers' own court, Feb. 9 and walked off with an easy 41-26 victory.

Tonight's game will be the third of the season between these two old rivals and proves to be the rubber match of the year.

Restaurant Purse Today at Oaklawn

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Ten thoroughbreds in the four-year-old and up category go to the post today in the $2,500 Arkansas Restauranters Purse at Oaklawn Park.

It is the feature of an eight-race card.

Rated high on the list of entries is Henry Forrest's Jet Sub, a campaigner at Oaklawn for several seasons. The six-year-old son of Jet Pilot and Sub will be dropping in class after failing to win in seven starts at the New Orleans Fair Grounds.

All 10 entries are entered at prices ranging from $3,750 to $4,250.

Jet Sub is entered at 112 pounds and will be ridden by jockey Robert Duran. Hewson only one of his 18 starts last year but finished second five times and was third on five occasions.

Others regarded as strong contenders are Wallace Strong's Wise Deacon and J. C. Peterson's Shihill, the latter a recent winner at New Orleans and assigned top weight of 115 pounds. William Cook will ride Wise Deacon and Eugene Curry will pilot Shihill.

Completing the field are Robert Trippett's Star Breeze, Glen Munro's Will Command, the Running W. Stable's Lord Basher, Earl K. Carey's Borego, G. H. Ray's Irish Mud, Mrs. Emil Denemark's Mary and E. F. Lovelace's Andy J.

K. M. McClain's Dixie Dudley withstood a stretch drive by T. A. Grissom's Shan Pac to win the $3,500 Arkansas Handicappers Purse.

L. J. Knight's Lotafun was third. J. W. Buchanan's favored Relequest was a badly beaten fifth behind M. H. Van Berg's well-backed Sorez.

Dixie Dudley was overlooked by most of the George Washington Birthday crowd of 8,957. He paid $17.40 straight.

Yesterday's total mutual handle was $434,340.

Bearcats Are Assured of NCAA Title

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Oscar Robertson has another line in major college basketball's record book today and his top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats are virtually assured of their third crack at the NCAA championship.

The fabulous Big 7, winding up what for him was a mediocre two-game tour of Texas, managed six field goals Monday night in Cincinnati's 85-54 rout of North Texas State to tie Elgin Baylor's all-time career record of 956 field goals.

But while Oscar was held to only 16 points, Houston shaved the Bearcats toward another Missouri Valley Conference championship and another NCAA tournament by snapping Bradley's 15-game winning streak, 63-58.

The flub by Bradley, the nation's No. 3 team in the new Associated Press poll, dropped the Braves a game behind Cincinnati with three games to go for each club in their mighty MVC duel.

If Cincinnati can win its last three conference games—and it'll be naturally favored over Wichita, Tulsa and Drake—it has the title and an NCAA berth in the bag.

Georgia Tech and Notre Dame officially joined the NCAA tournament family, the Irish 115-77, an at-large selection for the first round at Lexington, Ky. March 8, and Tech by clinching the Southeastern Conference spot with a 69-55 overtime victory over Florida.

Auburn stayed even with Tech at 11-2 in the SEC with one game remaining after a 72-63 decision over Tennessee but the Tigers are on NCAA probation and ineligible for the tournament.

Runner-up Kentucky, 10-3 after whipping Alabama 75-55, still could tie Tech but Tech would still get the berth in that event since it beat Kentucky twice during the regular season.

In other top games, New Mexico State grabbed the Border Conference lead from West Texas by a half-game with a 92-59 thrashing of the erstwhile pace-setters; Indiana rolled to its ninth straight victory 92-78 over Illinois to keep its mathematical chance behind unbeaten Ohio State in the Big PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Yale Lary of the Detroit Lions won the 1959 punting championship of the National Football League with a 47.1-yard average per boot. Lary edged New York's Don Chandler who averaged 46.6. Tom Davis, San Francisco rookie, was third with 45.7.

Ten race; and Missouri whipped Colorado 82-73 and knocked the Bulls out of a three-way tie for the Big Eight lead with idle Kansas and Kansas State.

Wake Forest (18-6) prepping for the Big Atlantic Coast Conference tournament next week, thumped NIT-bound Villanova 89-70 behind 26 points from Billy Packer, 21 in International Relations.

Other major results included: Miami, Fla.'s 104-95 victory over Kentucky Wesleyan for a 22-3 record; Oklahoma 50 Nebraska 49; Iowa 78 Purdue 60, Duke 79 Virginia 63, Northwestern 71 Michigan 63, Baptist Church New Orleans 71, Wisconsin 88 Michigan 82 in overtime. Big 9 Fives Tune Up for Tournament

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Little Rock, Blytheville, Port Smith and Little Rock Central begin tuning up this week for the Class AAAA basketball tournament March 12-14 at Blytheville.

They have the last week of the Big Nine Conference season to do their priming, because almost everything in the league is settled.

Port Smith and Blytheville iron out second and third place Thursday and Friday nights in a two-game series at Port Smith.

Aside from that, everything seems set. North Little Rock has tied the championship with a 11-0 record an duo games to play. Blytheville is 11-3 and Port Smith is 10-3.

Central is 8-5 and could be tied by El Dorado for fourth place, but that is unlikely. El Dorado would have to win its last two, including one over North Little Rock, and Central would have to lose its last three.

The top four teams in the Big Nine represent Class AAA in the tournament. They are matched with the top Class AA clubs.

North Little Rock turned back Central last week 37-32, then knocked Blytheville 61-42 to nail down the Big Nine title. The Wildcats have won 20 straight games and have a 21-1 season chart.

They are the favored in the tournament.

North Little Rock meet El Dorado Tuesday night at North Little Rock, then winds up its schedule Friday night at Pine Bluff.

Cincinnati still leads the college basketball parade with the end in sight, but it has a new challenger in Ohio State which has moved into second place in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Although Oscar Robertson was held to 14 points Saturday, Cincinnati beat Houston 57-47 to boost its record to 20-1. There is a comfortable 203-point gap between Cincinnati and runner-up Ohio State.

Ohio State's victories over Illinois and Michigan State earned enough support to give the Buckeyes the No. 2 spot in a scramble with Bradley and California.

St. Bonaventure advanced into the top 10 for the first time by knocking off Villanova and Marquette.

Thomas Out to Break Own Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Up, up, up goes the high jump crossbar and up, up, up goes John Thomas right after it.

So far the bar hasn't outdistanced the great Boston University sophomore. He has met every challenge, but it's getting harder and harder.

Thomas, clearing 7-2, bettered his own week-old world indoor record of 7 feet, 1½ inches in the 101 National AAU championships last Saturday night in Madison Square Garden.

He missed on his first try, but then climbed over easily on his second. He had perhaps a half inch to spare.

"But," said Coach Ed Flanagan Monday, "we want to equal 7-2 again before worrying about anything else."

All told, four world indoor marks fell in the AAU championships.

In addition to Thomas, record breaker included Bo Robinson who shattered Jesse Owens' 25-year record of 25-0½ with a broad jump of 25-9½; Al Lawrence of Germany 48, Sweden 20 (the University of Houston who U.S.A. 16, Switzerland 15, Canada lowered the three-mile record to 13:26.4, and Hal Connolly of San-Lucia, Calif., who got off a 71-foot, 2½-inch toss in the 35-pound weight throw.

Bill Dellinger set the three-mile record of 13:37 last year.

Connolly shattered a "barrier" with his record-breaker. No one ever had gone over 70 feet. The listed record is 66-2 set by Bob Backus, who was second.

Also participating in the religious emphasis week forum were the Rev. Theodore Webber, professor of social ethics, Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. John Ford, Oklahoma 50 Nebraska 49; Nau, religion and philosophy department chairman, Mississippi Southern, Dr. John D. Barring Upset, U. S. May Get Victory Today

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Barring an amazing upset, the Stars and Stripes of the United States should flutter high on the Olympic pole today for the first time in the eighth Winter Olympics.

Already far ahead after completion of the compulsory figures, lovely Carol Helges of Ozone Park, N.Y., was rated a 1 to 100 shot to realize a 16-year ambition and win the Olympic figure skating gold medal—the only prize that has eluded her so far.

The 20-year-old skating queen stopped on the ice for the free skating finale today with an almost unbeatable lead over her arch-rival, 18-year-old Slovakian Dijkstra of Holland. Carol, the four-time world champion, had 60 ordinals—a perfect rating from the nine judges—and 837.8 points compared to the European champion's 20 ordinals and 702 points.

Carol was far in front despite some eyebrow-lifting scoring on the final and final compulsory figure Monday. Play of the line judges gave Miss Dijkstra more points on this difficult backward bracket change bracket figure than they credited to Carol. One other official had them even. Several members of the U.S. family charged the judges upgraded the Dutch girl.

The Americans—shut out of the first 11 of the 27 championships—had another hope in the women's giant slalom. Penny Pitou, of Gilford, N.H., who was second in the downhill, and Betsy Snilo, of Norwich, Vt., matched their skill and daring against Europe's best in the giant slalom on Popovus Peak.

There was virtually no hope at all for Uncle Sam in the remainder of the program. He didn't have a ghost of a chance in the 3,000-meter women's speed skating, an event right up the Soviet Union's alley, or in the men's 5-kilometer (3.1 miles) cross-country ski race.

Sixteen Jernberg, Sweden's "king of the skis" and winner of the 30-kilometer gold medal, aimed to become the first double gold medal winner of the games by taking this race.

Monday was another black day for the Yanks. In the fourth day of competition, the gold medals went to France, the U.S.S.R. and Germany, and the Soviet Union rolled up its advantage in the unofficial team point scoring.

The Soviets had 80½ points; jump of 25-9½; Al Lawrence of Germany 48, Sweden 20 (the University of Houston who U.S.A. 16, Switzerland 15, Canada lowered the three-mile record to 13:26.4, and Hal Connolly of San-Lucia, Calif., who got off a 71-foot, 2½-inch toss in the 35-pound weight throw.

Connolly shattered a "barrier" with his record-breaker. No one ever had gone over 70 feet. The listed record is 66-2 set by Bob Backus, who was second.

Jean Vuarnet, a handsome, 27-year-old Frenchman who was told to "go for broke" in his last big-time fling, captured the downhill in 2:06.0 for the dangerous, two-lap mile journey down ice-capped Popovus Peak.

George Thoma, a stocky, 22-year-old mail carrier from Germany's Black Forest, upset the Scandinavian and Soviet favorites in winning the Nordic combined jumping and cross-country skiing with 457.9 points.

The 5-6, 147 pound West German added a fourth place in the cross-country to his first in the jumping to beat Norway's Tormod Knutsen.

The Soviet Union downed scrappy Czechoslovakia 8-5, and Canada trounced Germany 12-0 in the other openers.

THE BUSHWHACKERS

THE STORY: When Charles W. Quantrell raided Lawrence, Kan., in the early days of the Civil War, an artist named Hovey witnessed the slaying of Abolitionists and drew a picture of the episode. Later Hovey was killed in the Baxter Springs massacre and the picture fell in Quantrell's hands. The guerrilla leader mailed the picture to a magazine in the North.

Chapter 2

The type across the top of the full-page illustration read: "Quantrell's Bloody Raid at Lawrence."

It showed a guerrilla dragging a civilian by the heels into the dusty street of Lawrence, where Quantrell sat astride a great horse, passing judgment upon the victims. Two men stood beside the guerrilla chieftain, each with a sheet of paper in his hands. The face of the youth who was dragging the victim by the heels was wildly distorted, as were the faces of two other young guerrillas in the background, who were clubbing down another citizen of Lawrence with the muzzles of Navy pistols. Another was pulling his horse to its haunches, having apparently just ridden into the scene.

The clearest of all the faces in the picture, however, was that of the man who was thrusting a blazing revolver into the face of the citizen being dragged before Quantrell.

There was a fairly long caption under the full-page sketch. It gave names of some of the principals in the scene of carnage and massacre. A box, made by routing out a square of the lower right-hand corner of the picture and filling it with black type, read:

"This most astonishing picture of the year was drawn at the scene of battle by the noted illustrator - correspondent, John Hovey, and mailed to us after his death. Quantrell is the central figure in the portrait. It is reported that Quantrell murdered Hovey with his own hand at the Baxter Springs massacre and with macabre humor mailed the illustration to us."

Bokker said, "You've seen the picture before?"

Grayson looked up from the magazine. "Can't say that I have."

A voice inside the room said quietly, "Don't strike another match."

Quantrell?"

"Mr. Bokker," Grayson said, "I served in the Confederate Army. Under General Jo Shelby, I'm proud to say, I also rode with him into Mexico and enlisted with Maximilian. I'm not ashamed of my war record. You sir, you wore gray?"

"Look at the picture again," Bokker said gently.

Grayson picked up the magazine again, but glanced at the illustration only briefly. "This is a Yankee magazine."

Bokker sighed and picked up the magazine. "You don't recognize the portrait of yourself in this?"

"Third from the left—the caption says, 'Captain Bill Grayson.'"

"We covered a lot of ground," Grayson said easily, "but I don't recall that the Iron Brigade ever took a town named Lawrence. Not in Kansas."

"All right," said Bokker. "I won't press it."

"Never talk politics. Not my business," Grayson nodded carelessly toward the man at the other table, who had been with him when Bokker first sat down. "Lige's job."

The man named Lige couldn't have heard Grayson's soft-spoken words, but he had seen that Quantrell murdered Hovey with his own hand at the Baxter Springs massacre and with macabre humor mailed the illustration to us."

form of Quantrell's raiders.

Bokker's eyes went to the face of the guerrilla who was in the act of shooting off his Navy pistol into the face of the civilian being dragged toward Quantrell.

There was a touch of wildness in the young guerrilla's face, yet it was the face of Phil Bokker.

But Phil Bokker had not been at Lawrence with Quantrell. Phil Bokker had worn a blue uniform throughout the war.

Bokker took a nap and when he awakened it was dark in his little room. He lit the candle, washed his hands and face and then went down to the hotel lobby.

Things were livelier up in the barroom, but Bokker gave the room only a glance. He went outside and, standing on the raised wooden sidewalk, looked up and down the street, which consisted of less than two blocks of buildings.

His eyes finally focused on a restaurant across the street. It bore the sign: Anne's Place. He crossed the street and entered the restaurant. It contained a short counter and two tables. The only other customer was a whiskered oldster who sat at the far end of the counter, sipping a noisy bowl of soup.

Anne Moody, a fresh-faced woman in her late twenties, came out of the kitchen and set a glass of water before Bokker. "Would you like steak or chops, Mr. Bokker? Pork chops?"

"You know my name?"

"Lige Thomas gets his meals here."

"I see. Mmmh about the pork chops?"

She nodded and went into the kitchen. She put the chops on the fire and then returned. "I'd like to see that magazine, Mr. Bokker," she said.

Bokker regarded her curiously. "Captain Grayson didn't care about looking at it."

"Of course not. He wants to forget," Anne frowned a little. "My husband, Dick Moody, was with Quantrell."

"I'd like to talk to him."

She shook her head impassively. "The bluecoats hanged him in September '63."

"He was stubborn," she paused. "You won't get much information in Raytown. Not from the menfolk."

"The war's been over four years. They all received amnesty."

"You don't forget in four years."

She hastened into the kitchen. He did not return again until she brought out a platter containing match to find his way to the door of Room 3, but it went out as he opened the door.

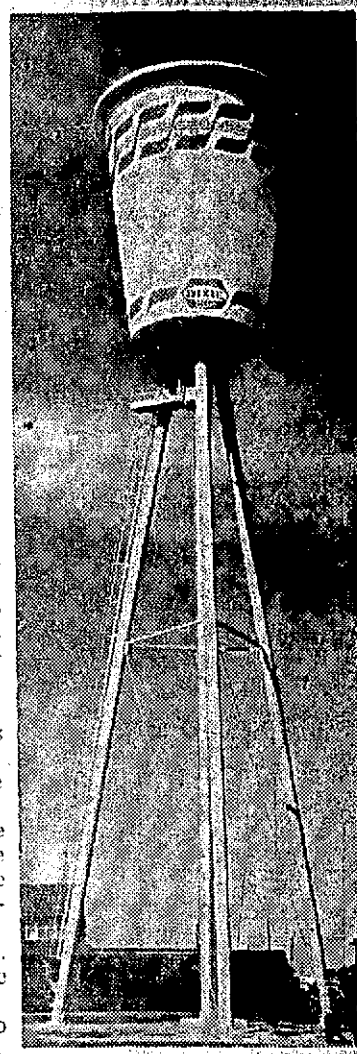

A voice inside the room said quietly, "Don't strike another match!"

RED CROSS RESCUE METHOD — Approaching spring brings warmer weather which can menace skaters who venture out on too-thin ice. The Cleveland Chapter of the Red Cross suggests the rescue method demonstrated above. A length of wood is extended to endangered pair, right. First man is followed out by companion who hangs onto his legs.

TALL DRINK — This 75,000-gallon "drinking cup" provides elevated water storage for the sprinkler system of a paper cup manufacturer in Frampton, Ontario, Canada. The steel tripod structure is 100 feet high.

He left the restaurant and crossed to the hotel. Someone was singing in the bar and Bokker stopped, of half a mind to go in and have a beer. He finally decided against it and climbed to the second floor. He struck a match to find his way to the door of Room 3, but it went out as he opened the door.

A voice inside the room said quietly, "Don't strike another match!"

LAC Receives Report of Road Program

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Legislative Audit Committee today received an audit report of the complicated multi-million dollar operation of the State Highway Department.

The report, covering five months of study, revealed no irregularities.

And Legislative Auditor Orvel M. Johnson said he found nothing to criticize in the way Highway Department affairs were handled.

State Sen. Fred Stafford of Marked Tree, the Audit Committee chairman, said "this is a fine audit, and I think it should be pointed out that we saved the Highway Department $25,000."

The department formerly had non-governmental accounting firms audit its books at cost of $25,000.

Johnson said this practice had been stopped.

There was a separate audit report on funds for the Mississippi River Bridge being built at Helena.

Johnson said everything was in good shape.

The same was true of seven other offices and departments, where Johnson and his staff had made routine audits.

State Plans Six Major Bridges

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The State Highway Department plans to build six major new bridges for Arkansas highways in the next 20 years. Total cost is estimated at 41 million dollars.

A highway official said all construction contracts should be within 13 years.

A contract has been let for one bridge, a three-million dollar structure at Greers Ferry in Cleburne County. Other planned new bridges are:

Over the Arkansas River at Little Rock — a "fourth bridge" — to cost $6,700,000.

Marriage Breakup

PARIS (AP)—Paris gossip columnists are almost unanimous in predicting that Brigitte Bardot's marriage is near the breaking point. They say the trouble is that husband Jacques Charrier is jealous of his 25-year-old bride.

His troubles with the army are said to be a complicating factor.
